Terrible Tragedy.

Advices from Marshall county, Ky., give an account of a terrible tragedy in that county a few days ago. It appears that about a year ago James Dougherty married the daughter of Howell Smith, and that they lived unhappily and finally separated on Sunday last. Smith told Dougherty he could settle the difficulty between him and his wife. Dougherty instantly shot the old man dead and fled subsequently. He was captured and was being taken back to Marshall county when a son of the murdered Smith, being one of the capturing party, fired on Dougherty, wounding him in the hand and arm, after which he clubbed him with his gun and the end of it crushed Dougherty's head into a jelly.

AUGUSTA, GA., May 1.—Joseph T. Curry, who styles himself a prophet of Yahweh, dividing company and teaching the new dispensation, was convicted of fornication at the last term of Columbia Superior Court, and sentenced by Judge Gibson to imprisonment for six months in the county jail, and to pay a fine of five hundred dollars. Curry had ample opportunity to escape, but prefers to be made a martyr of. He is now in jail in Columbia county.

A Toronto special from Fort Garry, asserts that the reports of the Indian troubles are baseless.

The Clergy and Free Masons.

RIO JANEIRO, May 1.—The Ministry is divided upon the proper course in the dispute between the Clergy and Free Masons. Yellow fever has almost disappeared from Rio and other sea coast towns, in consequence of the great decline in sugar at the Board of Exchange heavy sugar contractors lose heavily. Buyers of exchange are careful. It is believed that Havana houses, with a few exceptions, will be able to stand the losses, though it is feared in case of further decline, prominent foreign and domestic houses will be compelled to suspend.

In the Supreme Court in the case of the Police Jury vs. Britton, from Louisiana, the court held that certain coupons issued by the Police Jury of Tennessee parish on account of levee work in 1869, were unauthorized. Judgment was reversed.

In the case of Haldam et al. vs. Sumner et al., the court decides that all statutes of prescription and limitation were suspended at least in the Federal Courts during the war, which in Louisiana was not determined until the proclamation of the President of April, 1865. Decree affirmed.

Can Hens be too Fat to Lay Well?

A correspondent writes to the Rural Home as follows: Old folks used to say: If your hens are neglected and run down poor, then you may get them too fat to lay, but if you raise a lot of pullets and feed them all they want to eat, of corn, buckwheat, ashes, burned bone, etc., lime in the winter, and keep doing so as long as you want them to lay, then you will find out whether or not they cannot have them too fat to lay.

I am about sixty two years old, and have experimented with hens more or less for twenty-five years. I raise a lot of pullets every summer for layers, and dispose of the older ones. I make a net profit on every hen of about $1.50, and not counting the pullets; get 20 cents per dozen for eggs; on an average 20 to 25 cents for chickens when they are two months old. I could give you a list of particulars of debtor and creditor, for a number of years, but I don't think it necessary. I will say, however, that I have had from twenty-four hens, in one year, 257 dozen eggs, and raised 70 chickens. That year I had a net profit of a little over $2 per hen, not reckoning the pullets.

My hens are a mixture of cross of different breeds—Hamburgs, Polands and Pheasants—I have no blooded hens of any kind.

Salting Butter.

A paragraph in the Bucks County, Pa., Agricultural Society's report on the above subject, is suggestive:

A short essay by Miss Kate Craven, of Newtown, was read, in response to the question, "Can butter be packed to advantage in June or July for winter?" Miss Craven was decidedly in favor of packing butter in early summer, when the price is usually so low as to be unprofitable. If properly put up then it can not be surpassed. It must be fresh and good, or it will not keep well. Her receipt is: for twenty pounds of butter, take one and a fourth pounds of salt, one ounce pulverized saltpeter, and a small quantity of white sugar, which should be worked into the butter, and left over night. Next day work again, make into lumps, put into a stone vessel; and cover with hessian strong enough to bear an egg. Lay a bag filled with salt in the vessel, and replenish when empty. Do not remove the butter long before it is needed.
